Though Jesus was a devout Jew who practiced his faith, he was criticized for eating with tax collectors and sinners—the religiously nonobservant. Jesus criticizes the self-righteous and reminds us that mercy is to be at the heart of our religious practices. God continues to be made known in those on the margins of society, like Matthew the tax collector and the hemorrhaging woman. As we gather each Lord's day we receive the healing that makes us well and sends us forth to be signs of God's mercy for the world.

Columba, died 597; Aidan, died 651; Bede, died 735; renewers of the church

These three monks from the British Isles helped keep the light of learning alive during the Middle Ages. Columba founded three monasteries off the coast of Scotland. Aidan was a pastor who led people to works of charity. The Venerable Bede was a Bible translator, historian, and hymnwriter.

Wednesday, June 11

Barnabas, Apostle

Barnabas was not numbered among the twelve apostles, but the book of Acts gives him that title. After Paul was converted to Christianity, Barnabas welcomed him to Jerusalem, and later the two traveled together on missionary journeys.

Saturday, June 14

Basil the Great, Bishop of Caesarea, died 379; Gregory, Bishop of Nyssa, died around 385; Gregory of Nazianzus, Bishop of Constantinople, died around 389; Macrina, theologian, died around 379

The Cappadocian fathers, as the three men in this group are known, explored the mystery of the Holy Trinity. Basil's monastic rule forms the basis for Eastern monastic life. Gregory of Nazianzus defended orthodox Christianity in Constantinople. Gregory of Nyssa, Basil's younger brother, wrote on the spiritual life. Macrina, older sister of Basil and Gregory of Nyssa, was the leader of a community dedicated to asceticism, meditation, and prayer.

ABOUT PEANUT ALLERGIES

Several members of our congregation at CtK and Chapel School have a life-threatening anaphylactic peanut allergy. Anaphylaxis is characterized by difficulty breathing or swallowing, swelling of the lips, tongue, or other parts of the body, dizziness or loss of consciousness. This usually occurs within minutes after contact with the allergen but can take up to 4 hours.

Peanut Allergy is the most prevalent food allergy in the US, where as many as one and a half million people suffer from the condition. For some, exposure to the smallest (less than 1% of a peanut) amount of peanut protein can trigger a serious and potentially fatal allergic reaction. Statistics show that peanut allergies account for about 100 deaths each year.

An allergic reaction can be caused by ingestion, direct contact, cross-contact and even inhalation in some cases.

Unfortunately there is no cure for a peanut allergy. Traditionally the first line of defense has been strict and vigilant avoidance—but the danger of somehow, inadvertently coming into contact with peanut proteins is always present, making for a difficult and sometimes inconvenient lifestyle.

Many items may contain peanuts, or be manufactured on the same lines as peanuts (a concern because the peanut protein/oil is very difficult to remove—and thus raises a concern for cross-contamination). Common sources of peanuts include: baked items, chocolate, cookies, chips, cereals, protein bars, trail mix, peanut butter, crackers, pretzels, and ice cream. Less thought of sources include most Chinese, Asian and Mexican food, lotions, lollipops, pet foods, bird seed, medicines, Minute Maid Heart Healthy Orange Juice, some Campbell soups, some salad dressings, donuts and jellybeans.

There are many safe choices for packaged foods, including most Lay's chips, most Pepperidge Farm products, Rold Gold Pretzels, most Ritz and Triscuit crackers, vegetables, fruits, cheeses and meats. Very specific brands need to be purchased, and labels always need to be checked, as manufacturing processes change.

When bringing food into CtK please be conscious of the items you buy and/or prepare for our events. Your help is greatly appreciated.

If anyone has any further questions about food allergies, the peanut allergy, or safe foods, please contact Kim or Mark Peicker at kpeicker@comcast.net.
